Monaco by Dodge

Some things about Monaco are obvious. The unusually generous proportions of the seats. The restrained richness of saddle grain vinyls. The deft accents of front seat rattan insets. The entire interior is designed to give each individual the feeling that he is a guest rather than a passenger. And Monaco is unusual in other respects. Such as the complete sense of control and steadiness it gives the man behind the wheel. On the road, Monaco is as flexible as your mood, as aggressive as your spirit. It goes well with your sense of adventure. It wears well with your sense of good taste.

STANDARD

Monaco's list of standard equipment is so complete that it includes: Rakish triple-spoke steering wheel. □ Rattan inset door panels. □ Rattan-backed bucket seats. □ Console-mounted rear ash receiver and lighter. □ Gleaming deluxe wheel covers. □ Integrated instrument cluster and color-keyed padded dash.

OPTIONAL

Your list of optional equipment for the Monaco is unusually complete and attractive. Here are a few examples: Rich grain vinyl roof covering. □ Console-mounted tachometer. □ Seven-position tilt steering wheel (requires power steering n.a. with standard transmission). □ TorqueFlite automatic transmission.

MONACO: You've never seen a Dodge like this before because there's never been a Dodge like this before. There is one model: the two-door hardtop. Reason: singleness of purpose. Concentration on the part of designers and engineers to build the finest Dodge ever produced. Result: an automobile that is as rugged as it is rich, as handsome as it is powerful. From the gracefully sculptured roof line to the lively 383 cubic inch V8 engine, Monaco reflects the style, the sophistication and the spirit that have long been a tradition with Dodge. Why not make Dodge a tradition with you?
